DIGITAL MEMORIAL

OUR SERVICE: With more than 50% of people now getting cremations when a love one passes, there is no cemetery, tombstone, or grave site to honor them. Families only have a funeral program brochure, maybe some videos and pictures of the deceased loved one. Now you can have a proper memorial for your loved one, set up on the Web, where you can share their memory with others on social media or through email. A memorial that can be viewed by anyone at any time 24/7. So now, when you talk about what a great person you knew, you can give people a link and show them a memorial of the person you loved - you can show them that you've honored your loved one forever. They can even read a bio about your deceased family member and view their photos online in a proper memorial setting. Now you can properly honor your loved ones who gave you cherished moments during their life. You can share your loved one's memorial on platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and other social media just by pasting your memorial link. Remember the saying, "When it's on the Internet, it's there forever." Now your loved one can be digitally remembered and honored forever.

EXAMPLE: YOUR LOVED ONE'S PERSONAL BIO:

GRACY E. JONES

Richmond, VA

1935 – 2016

Gracy E. Jones was an outstanding nurse and mother.

She was a registered nurse, and graduated in 1958 from Mercyhurst Northeast in Richmond VA.

She was quickly hired by the largest hospital in the area, and began working on an internal medicine cardiac support floor. She took care of many who needed their hearts and lungs monitored continuously. The most common type of patient she had was post open heart surgery patients, but she had a great deal of post gastric bypass, as well. In general, she helped mostly surgical patients, but she also helped anyone who needed heart or lung support. It was a great nurse and her patients loved her.

At the same time she was a wonderful mother, Gracy made sure there was dinner on the table every night and she always encouraged her children to strive to be the best at whatever they decided to do with their lives. There were a lot of people who knew and love her — too many to name.

DIGITAL MEMORIAL

In 2010 Gracy retired and became a full-time home maker. She decided that she wanted to focus on her life-long passion of writing, and once she did, she published 2 books about nursing.

She used her nursing knowledge to both help nurses and to educate patients. That combined her love of nursing with her passion for writing.

May you rest in peace, Gracy. A wonderful mother and an excellent nurse.
